DLBA set to huff, puff and blow Blight Down!

On April 15, 2014, City Council unanimously approved a measure to transfer 16,399 City-owned properties to the Detroit Land Bank Authority. Under the plan, the DLBA will maintain, demolish and ultimately auction the properties with the goal of eliminating blight and igniting development in distressed neighborhoods. This insures the DLBA will have the ability to expend the $52 million in Hardest Hit Funds on blight removal and demolition by April 30, 2015.
